Profile

David has vast experience in all the fields of civil law set out above. Has appeared in all levels of Court and Tribunals including the Court of Appeal (both in the UK and Gibraltar), the Privy Council and the House of Lords. In property matters he acts regularly for both commercial landlords and tenants. He acts both for and against large commercial lenders in mortgage matters. He has regularly dealt with all areas of company law including insolvency, disqualification, directors' duties and minority shareholder actions. He has appeared in numerous cases dealing with all aspects of commercial law including banking, sale of goods, carriage of goods and insurance. In the employment field he has recently acted for a major financial services client in a whistle blowing claim listed for 12 days. He has extensive experience and expertise in all aspects of the law relating to gambling and, in particular, spread betting and CFDs.
